

JURISPRUDENCE ON EUROPEAN INTEGRATION /
PRACTICAL CASE-SOLVING IN EUROPEAN LAW

Bibliography
(general bibliography on European law)¹

Preliminary remark

Since the Treaty of Lisbon has entered into force in December 2009, most textbooks, commentaries, handbooks and other publications on European Union law are not up to date anymore. There have been extensive and far-reaching changes, in particular concerning the institutions of the Union and the protection of fundamental rights. Therefore, it is recommended to use primarily new books or new editions, which have been published in 2010.

H. Internet sources in the field of European law

There are many internet sources which allow an easy orientation and a quick access to the Law of the European Union. For example, you can find all the founding treaties, all EU legislation and all the jurisprudence of the European Court of Justice in the internet. As well, some introductions to case-solving in the field of European law have been published in the internet. See the links on the special websites for my courses (<http://home.lanet.lv/~tschmit1>, at "Lehre/Courses"). Those who understand a little bit German will find detailed references at www.jura.uni-goettingen.de/schmitz (see "Links", "A. Europarecht" and "F. Fälle und Lernmaterialien").

I especially recommend those internet sources which provide the same informations in different European languages (see, for example, the website of EuR-Lex, <http://eur-lex.europa.eu>). It is useful to have a look on different language versions and to learn the most important legal terms in various languages. Most times, it is easy to switch between the different language versions ("lv" stands for Latvian, "en" for English and "de" for German). If possible, the founding treaties should be read in French, Italian or German because the English version has been added later and contains many unprecise and problematic passages which may cause misunderstandings. Be careful with the Latvian translations because they show a lot of mistakes. - Unfortunately, not all documents are available in all official languages of the European Union.
